Voilà les Américains: The Experience of the Franco-American Alliance in WWI

Richard S. Hopkins, Ph.D.
Widener University
THE P. M. C. NEWS

Vol. 2
OCTOBER, 1917.
No. 1

P. M. C. MAN FALLS FIGHTING GALLANTLY
WITH CRACK BRITISH GRENADEIR GUARDS

"Carry on, you fellows!"

The first son of P. M. C. to fall magnificently gallant in the battle field of 1917, the news reached the home of his comrades when they started to take him into the ambulance. He died while half unconscious, and told them
he would soon meet them.

EDWARD CHAP, OF THE GRANDAIRE GUARDS

Machine Gun Fire

National Guard, a rancheur at San Antonio, when war was declared. He felt the mandate of duty to fight for both the country and the service.

Captured October 15, 1917, in the Grandalire Guards, the soldier and most honored regiment of foot in England.

In action.

He was in Champagne, Hospital for seven months with wounds which questioned his recovery. Only last Wednesday he returned to work. He went through a gas attack a few days ago, but was not seriously injured.

He was suffered from the strain of the lives long and hard to keep in shape of his obligation when he went over the line. He was told from the moment of his appoint. ment, from a fellow in the regiment, and from Dr. Padgett of Philadel. phia, who addressed him at the summit.

YOUNG GRADUATE IS DECORATED FOR HIS SERVICES ON BATTLEFIELDS OF FRANCE

A P. M. C. man has been decorated for his work on the battlefields of France. He is James C. Holbert, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas, a member of the No. 3 of the American Field Service.

Holbert was decorated at the front on August 4, in the presence of French officials. He was wounded in the face, and was at this time in charge of an American ambulance which PW suffered from in the war.

Letters to Holbert may be addressed: "P. M. C. Boy, P. O. Box 200, Austin, Texas." His letter was read in color and style. Holbert before enlisting to his life at P. M. C. "Tell the boys that I will come home with them." He was decorated for his work on the battlefields of France.

LARGEST CORPS IN COLLEGES HISTORY.
REPORTS OF DUTY.

Buildings Taxed to Capacity at Start of Fifty-Sixth Year.
Waiting List Established.

The third annual "assembly" through the long corridors and over the broad campus of the College campus at 1395 W. P. W., Wednesday, Sept. 21, 1917, was the largest assembly of the year. A total of 70 new members answered the first call.

The local enrollment is well over the list. With the College and Junior College capacity. For at least two weeks, providing the opening, the authorities were compelled to refuse applicants.

ON ACTIVE SERVICE WITH THE AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE

SERVING, OF THE AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

He was decorated, at the front, in the presence of French and British officers, on August 4, for his service on the battlefields of Europe.
The hero of the Marne stopped off at Chester on his way to New York yesterday long enough to review the Pennsylvania Military College battalion at the Baltimore and Ohio station.
Touring Memory at the American Red Cross Military Hospital No. 1
Join prominent historians for a daylong symposium exploring the rationale for the Great War, its impact on Widener University's connections to the conflict, which ended 100 years ago.